Hi there,

If you caught President Obama on 60 Minutes, you saw him offer a vision of the Obama Presidential Center. More than just a world-class museum, the Center will engage visitors and connect them with ways to shape their own future for the common good.

But we can't build it without your help. Before Giving Tuesday is over, donate and help bring the Obama Presidential Center to life.

Rooted in our Foundation's mission to inspire, empower, and connect people to change their world, the Obama Presidential Center will allow visitors to experience a historic presidency firsthand.

You've followed the Foundation for some time, so you know the Center will be more than just a world-class museum—it will offer inspiration to young people who are interested in service, and beautify a park to serve a community that has been underserved in the past.

And we can't bring President Obama's vision to life without you. Donate on Giving Tuesday and help us build the Obama Presidential Center.

In 2008, supporters like you helped drive a campaign that inspired the world and sent President and Mrs. Obama to the White House.

The Obama Presidential Center is an opportunity to make history once again.
